Benefit Station Japan service offers visitors to Japan discounts at eating and drinking establishments and Wi-Fi+LTE telecommunications

Offering service to visitors to Japan who use China Airlines

WirelessGate, Inc. (Head Office: Shinagawa-ku, Tokyo; Representative Director and CEO: Takehiro Ikeda; hereinafter "Wireless Gate") and Benefit One Inc. (Head Office: Shinjuku-ku, Tokyo; Representative Director and President: Norio Shiraishi; hereinafter "Benefit One") will offer tourists visiting Japan from Taiwan using China Airlines Benefit Station Japan, which will entitle them to "discounts at eating and drinking establishments" and "Wi-Fi+LTE telecommunications" service in Japan starting on Thursday, October 15.

WirelessGate and Benefit One have been providing Benefit Station Japan to tourists visiting Japan from Taiwan since May this year. Users insert a dedicated SIM card into a mobile terminal and download a dedicated app to receive a discount of around 20% off their food and drink charges at around 3,000 eating and drinking establishments affiliated with Benefit One in major cities throughout Japan. In addition, users have unlimited use of high-speed telecommunication at some 40,000 Wi-Fi hotspots provided by WirelessGate throughout Japan, as well as have unlimited use of WirelessGate's LTE telecommunication services (maximum telecommunication speed 250 Kbps).

Now, Benefit Station Japan is being offered to people who purchase China Airlines tickets through travel agencies affiliated with China Airlines (brick-and-mortar stores and Internet).

Through this initiative, WirelessGate and Benefit One will raise the level of convenience for tourists visiting Japan from Taiwan, contributing to an enhanced travel experience.
